Classical DISC style overview

The behaviors of Sample and Sample2 displayed on this page are a combination of the influence of each of the four major DISC factors. Typically, each person will have one or two (most often) of the DISC factors that are prominently displayed. What follows is a description of the classic relationship patterns along with some insights into how Sample and Sample2 typically function in their day-to-day interpersonal dynamics. Their style is a baseline indicator that likely will be adapted by Sample and Sample2 based upon the interpersonal dynamic of their relationship.

Sample Report's DISC style: Formalist

Formalist Style Overview

Formalists rely upon procedure and structure in all aspects of life. They are detail-oriented and seek perfection. They need to know the expectations and the timetable for their work. They can get bogged down in detail and will not rush important decisions. They will take a risk if they have the facts to support it. They may be initially suspicious of personal compliments, praise or flattery.

- Emotional characteristic: Internally focuses energy on holding themselves to exacting standards and doing things right; may appear reserved and restrained.
- Goals: To achieve stable and reliable accomplishments.
- How others are valued: The consistent ability to be precise and accurate.
- Influences group: Through detailed and accurate input to team efforts.
- "Watch-out-for": Rely too much on past procedures; can become rule-bound.
- When under pressure: May revert to too much diplomacy and overly careful maneuvering.
- Fears: Aggressive, risky and confronting interactions; superficial personal relationships.

Sample2 Report2's DISC style: Results-Driven

Results-Driven Style Overview

The Results-Driven style displays strong self-confidence that may be viewed as arrogance. They will pursue options that challenge them to achieve goals. They like difficult tasks, unique opportunities and seek positions of authority. They avoid constraints. Rules can be viewed as loose guidelines. They act quickly and can become impatient and critical with more methodical and analytical people. In the extreme, they can appear cool and abrasive to others.

- Emotional characteristic: High ego strength and single-minded intensity.
- Goals: Winning, achieving dominance and lack of restraints.
- How others are valued: Through ability to accomplish tasks quickly and keep pace.
- Influences group: Power of assertion and persistence to win.
- "Watch-out-for": Can become too impatient and seek the "I win - You lose" scenario.
- When under pressure: Critical and fault-finding; can overstep bounds and not contribute fully to the team direction if different than their own.
- Fears: That other will take advantage, appearing too accommodating or too slow to act.

The next three pages provide useful insights for how you work with your partner to accomplish goals together. These are the talents and tendencies you bring. When used in environments that you are most effective in, you are likely to be more satisfied and engaged in the relationship.

To improve your relationship, choose a few of the items that stand out to you and consider 1) how you might better structure your relationship to enable what motivates you, 2) how to leverage your strengths, and 3) how your tendencies might be helping or hindering the relationship.

Strengths of Sample versus strengths of Sample2

Sample and Sample2 likely display the strengths below rather consistently. For the most part, these qualities tend to enhance their interpersonal effectiveness. The big question is – how can Sample & Sample2 best utilize their strengths together?

Sample's strengths:

- Your partner may lean on you at times because of your complete knowledge of how specific things in the real world work.
- You are not an extremist and tend to be supportive of the relationship's efforts.
- You are tactful in explaining ideas that may impact the relationship.
- You take your responsibilities seriously and exercise your power in the relationship with a conscientious manner.
- You are a strong guardian of expectations for quality outcomes.
- You maintain a high degree of accuracy while keeping an eye toward the impact of timing.
- You are especially careful that there are no loose ends that may have been overlooked by your partner.

Sample2's strengths:

- You are able to direct and motivate your partner while still being sensitive to their needs and concerns.
- You are able to jump into the middle of a crisis, get your partner on board, and make decisions quickly.
- You approach challenges in a forceful, direct, and bottom-line savvy manner.
- You're a cooperative partner who respects relationship routines and agreements.
- You have the ability to be both firm and friendly, as the situation demands.
- You are ready to take the credit or assume the blame for the results of your decisions.
- You have a strong ability to motivate and manage your partner through your optimistic attitude and firm defining of responsibilities.

Relationship Style Tendencies

Relationship Style Tendencies provide useful insights as Sample and Sample2 work together in their relationship. They are the talents and tendencies they each bring to the partnership. How do their relationship style tendencies mesh or clash?

Sample's relationship style tendencies:

- You tend to judge your partner by objective standards and prefer to be evaluated yourself with exact criteria.
- Naturally time-sensitive, you keep a careful eye on the progress of things and maintain a keen awareness of timelines.
- You give careful consideration to all variables and input in an issue. This may take a bit more time, but it will yield a quality outcome.
- You are highly conscientious and can be relied on to follow through on responsibilities or agreed upon actions.
- You will take calculated, educated risks only after a thoughtful analysis of the facts and data, and after you have examined all options and potential outcomes.
- You tend to be restrained and reticent with your emotions. You may not be openly verbal in discussions with your partner unless asked for input, or if the topic is of high personal importance.
- You appreciate an occasional word of reassurance from your partner, as long as it is sincere.

Sample2's relationship style tendencies:

- You expect your partner to keep up and maintain a rapid pace.
- You tend to express a very high sense of urgency on responsibilities and activities.
- You are motivated to be actively involved in everything the relationship accomplishes.
- You are self-confident and actively seek challenging goals for the relationship and yourself.
- You tend to be a very resourceful person -- well-networked and influential.
- You demonstrate foresight and strong organizational skills when planning for the "big picture."
- You want to achieve tangible, measurable, real-time results.

Becoming Most Effective in Your Relationship

Everybody is motivated; however, they are motivated for their own reasons, not somebody else's reasons. By understanding each other's motivations, Sample and Sample2 can create a relationship where they are most likely to be able to be self-motivated and motivate each other.

Sample tends to be most effective in relationships that provide:

- An environment free of conflict and hostility.
- Clear lines of authority to make decisions for the couple, with minimal ambiguities.
- Activities that can be monitored from beginning to end.
- Sufficient time to adjust to changes.
- A close-knit group of people with whom you have developed mutual trust, rapport, and credibility.
- A sincere care for people outside the relationship.
- Established routines, practices, and methods.

Sample2 tends to be most effective in relationships that provide:

- Non-routine activities.
- A climate that supports innovative ideas.
- Opportunities to motivate your partner to achieve a goal.
- A broad bandwidth of operation and influence.
- A high degree of contact with people, and an abundance of problems to solve.
- Freedom from mundane, repetitive details.
- Social recognition for accomplishments.

Communication Tips for Your Partner

The following suggestions can help Sample and Sample2 understand and be aware of each other's unique communication preferences. To use this information effectively, share it with each other and discuss your communication preferences to form a more productive, less stressful relationship.

When communicating with Sample, DO:

- Present your ideas and opinions in a non-threatening way.
- Be certain that the information you have is credible.
- Be sensitive to possible areas of disagreement because Sample may not be verbal about them.
- Give Sample time to verify the issues and potential outcomes.
- Providing instructions for multifaceted tasks in writing.
- Both you and Sample need to complete your share of the homework.
- Provide assurances about Sample's input and decisions.

When communicating with Sample, DON'T:

- Don't be rude, abrupt, or too fast-paced in your delivery.
- Don't offer promises that you can't keep.
- Don't fail to follow through. If you say you're going to do something, do it.
- Don't make decisions for Sample.
- Don't rush the issues or the decision-making process.
- Don't be vague about what's expected of the couple.
- Don't leave an idea or plan without backup support.

When communicating with Sample2, DO:

- Be prepared to handle some objections.
- Be efficient: Hit the major points first.
- Plan to talk about things that support Sample2's dreams and goals.
- Motivate and persuade Sample2 by pointing out objectives and expected results.
- Put details in writing, but don't plan on discussing them too much.
- Join in with some name-dropping and talk positively about people and their situations.
- Be specific about what's needed, and who is going to do it.

When communicating with Sample2, DON'T:

- Don't ask rhetorical or useless questions to make a point.
- Don't be overly task-oriented.
- Don't leave decisions hanging in the air. Be certain all decision points have reached closure and action plans are the result.
- Don't speculate wildly without factual support.
- Don't leave loopholes or vague issues hanging in the air.
- Don't get bogged down in the minutiae of facts and figures.
- Don't forget or lose things necessary for an activity to proceed.

Struggles of Sample versus struggles of Sample2

Everyone has their own personal struggles, limitations, or weaknesses. Often, it's simply an overextension of our strengths which may become a weakness. For example, ambition may be a strength when focused on improving a relationship, but when overextended to goals outside the relationship, an ambitious partner may neglect their significant other.

As you consider ways to continue to improve the items below to be a better partner, we recommend you focus on no more than two at a time, practice and strengthen them, and then choose another area to focus on and improve. Consider which one or two you would like to focus on first.

Sample's struggles:

- You could benefit from a greater degree of self-confidence and an increased sense of urgency to accomplish activities quickly.
- You may tend to spend more time than necessary on certain details, for fear of being seen as underprepared.
- You could broaden your perspective on relationships by interacting with a wider variety of people.
- You may sometimes overthink or overexert yourself on routine activities.
- You may sometimes use facts, figures, and details as a "security blanket" to avoid confrontation or hostility.
- You may be perceived as slow in making decisions and tentative when it comes to making changes.
- You could demonstrate a bit more spontaneity and take yourself a bit less seriously.

Sample2's struggles:

- You may tend to make decisions without consulting your partner, and without sharing information after the decision is made.
- A combination of ego and optimism may lead you to act too impulsively at times.
- You could get better results from your partner by exercising a greater degree of patience.
- You may become impatient when your partner does not give you proper attention and recognition.
- You tend to be a selective listener, hearing only what you want to hear.
- You may oversell your partner on relationship goals or activities and your mutual ability to achieve them.
- Your sense of urgency, coupled with your strong ego and optimism, may cause you to overstep your authority in the relationship.
